One Hundred Frosh Enter; Largest Class Enrolled

One hundred freshmen constitute the largest class yet enrolled at the college. Twenty-nine of the girls crossed the campus from the academy to the college. This Freshman Class has representatives from twenty-six high schools. Although the largest percentage of students came from St. Teresa's Academy, Hogan, Lincoln, Loretta and Redemptorist, seven other Kansas City high schools are represented, as well as three in Kansas, ten in the surrounding Missouri area, and one in Oklahoma and Iowa.

The freshmen chose Mary Helen Leahy from the St. Teresa's Academy to preside as chairman of the class until officers can be elected at the next monthly meeting.

Students have come from foreign nations to swell the enrollment to 502. Among the countries represented at CST are China, France, Italy, Japan, Latin America and Thailand.

Sisters from eight different religious orders are taking classes at the college. The orders represented are: Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet, Social Service, the Blessed Virgin Mary, Ursulines, Maryknoll Sisters, Daughters of Charity, Franciscans, and the Spanish Sisters of Mercy.

Lit Club To Study "Psycho" Novels At Night Meetings

The twentieth century's avid interest in man's life, viewed in relation to often unknown psychological activity within him, has prompted the CST Literary Club to gear its coming year's format to works of a psychological bent. The first novel to be chosen is a best seller in paper-backs and of movie and Broadway acclaim, THE BAD SEED, by William March.

The first meeting will be held Wednesday evening, October 23, from 7:30 to 9:00 in the lounge, and subsequent meetings will follow each month. The only requisite for attendance is having read the current book. This will thereby provide everyone with the opportunity of analyzing and criticizing the work for the purpose of better understanding and appreciating literature, which is the goal of the club.

The novel chosen for the November meeting is ETHAN FROME, by Edith Wharton.

Following Club Day at CST, students may make admission for permanent membership. Anne Yonke is chairman of the club and Sister Marcella Marie is moderator.

Refreshments will be served following each meeting.

Two Refresher Courses For Nurses Scheduled In Adult Ed. Program

Among the new classes being offered in the Adult Education program this semester are two refresher courses for registered nurses, with Ruth Hulse, Florence Clark and Della Reams, R.N.'s, as the advisors who formulated the teaching committee. The courses are designed to help relieve the current shortage of nurses in Kansas City hospitals by enabling registered nurses who have not been practicing for a long period of time to obtain some briefing on new techniques and developments.

These non-credit courses will consist of a series of eight lectures and some demonstrations. The program for Course I entails:

1. Preparation of patients for x-ray examination and therapy (John Walker, M.D.)
2. Newer lab tests: significance of and preparation. (Miss Teresa Niemek, R.N. at St. Margaret's Hospital)
3. Intravenous therapy: technique of administration, transfusion, plasma extenders. (Miss Mary Abts, technician at St. Mary's Hospital)
4. Orthopedic surgery. (Mrs. Margaret Schoeger will demonstrate the Stryker frame)
5. Newer drugs. (William Rost, M.D., from the school of pharmacy)
6. Intramuscular injections. Review of pharmaceutical calculations. (Miss Ruth Hulse, Understudies are Anna Jane Wright, freshman, for Gwendolyn; Sandy Janousek, sophomore, Marcella Bergup and Julie Feters, freshmen, for Cecily; and Lelauni Shaunty, freshman, for Lady Bracknell.

Students who wish to work backstage on lighting, sound effects, props, or prompting may consult Sister Felice in the Assembly Hall.

New President And Dean Among Faculty Changes

Faculty changes marked the beginning of the 1957-58 school year. Sister M. Alfred Noble, former dean of the college, has been appointed president. She succeeds Sister M. Berenice O'Neill, who served as president since 1951.

Sister Alfred received her M.A. in psychology at St. Louis University and her doctorate in psychology from Catholic University of America. She has been associated with St. Teresa's College since 1950. From 1950-55 she served as director of the Philosophy and Psychology Department, and was appointed dean in 1955.

Sister is a member of the American Psychological Association, the International Council of Women Psychologists, the American Catholic Psychological Association and the Mid-West Psychological Association.

Replacing Sister Alfred as dean is Sister Henrietta Eileen, director of the adult education program and the head of the Chemistry Department. Sister received her M.S. in chemistry at St. Louis University and her Ph.D. in chemistry at the University of Missouri. In addition to her administrative duties Sister will continue as head of the adult education program.

Sister Rose Anthony has returned to be an instructor in the Philosophy Department and assistant registrar after a year's absence. During her absence Sister attended St. Louis University and received her M.A. degree in philosophy. The title of Sister's thesis was: Terrestrial Effects of Celestial Bodies: Aquinas and Modern Science.

Sister M. Walburga, from Sacred Heart Central High School, Indianapolis, Indiana, has replaced Sister Rose Agnes in the Biology Department. Sister Walburga received her M.S. from Notre Dame University and has taught in the summer sessions here at the college and at Redemptorist High School, Kansas City.

Sister Paul Joseph joins the faculty as instructor in the Chemistry Department and Sodality moderator. Sister formerly taught at St. Anthony's and at St. Joseph's Academy in St. Louis and this past year completed her study for an M.S. in chemistry at St. Louis University.

Four Chemistry Lectures Here

A series of four lectures on "Modern Theories of Chemical Binding" will be presented at the college by Dr. I. C. Hisatsune, professor of physical chemistry at Kansas State College. The meetings will be held each Thursday evening from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. beginning October 3 and extending through October 31. A registration fee of $5 will be charged each applicant to help defray expenses. No text will be required.

Arrangements for the lectures were made by the Chemical Education Committee of the Kansas City section of the American Chemical Society. Phil A. Lewis, M.D., of Midwest Research Institute, is chairman of the committee. Among the other members are Sister Henrietta Eileen, dean of the college and head of the Chemistry Department; the Reverend Louis Keenoy, S.J., of Rockhurst; and Gaylord Atkinson, formerly a physics teacher at CST. Mr. Atkinson is now teaching a course on the use of the slide rule in the Adult Education Department.

Wilde Comedy To Open Drama Season

REHEARSAL SCENE: Tom Taff as Mr. Worthing explains to Maureen Murphy as Gwendolyn and Pat Turpin as Cecily, that he is Earnest in town and Jack in the country.

The Drama Department will present The Importance of Being Earnest, a farce by Oscar Wilde, November 1-3 in the Music and Arts auditorium.

Sister M. Felice, director, selected the cast from twenty-three students from CST and Rockhurst who auditioned for the roles. Maureen Murphy, junior, and Pat Turpin, sophomore, are cast as Gwendolyn Fairfax and Cecily Cardew, who are both in love with the mythical "Earnest." Alyce Marie Schmidt, junior, plays Lady Bracknell, Gwendolyn's Roman-matronish mother. Mary McQueeney, junior, is the befuddled Miss Prism, Cecily's governess. Jack Worthing, who masquerades as "Earnest," is played by Tom Taff. A Rockhurst alumnus, Tom had the lead in the CST production of Moliere's The Affected Young Ladies and took a comic role in Shaw's You Never Can Tell, which was produced at the college last fall. The timorous minister, Dr. Chasuble, will be played by Dick Dolce. Colleen Corcoran, freshman, and Sandy Janousek, sophomore, play the servants Lane and Merriman. YOUTH WEEK

For seven million young Catholics, October 27 through November 3 will be Catholic Youth Week with "healthier, holier, happier youth" as the theme of the movement.

The NF club on campus is promoting Youth Week throughout high schools, colleges and parishes of Kansas City. Tentative plans for the project include: promoting a Communion Sunday and sponsoring a holy hour on October 27; an official announcement from the Mayor proclaiming Youth Week; spot announcements on radio and television; and notices in the Kansas City papers.

The student assembly Monday, October 28, will be devoted to promoting Catholic Youth Week.

Home Is Where We Start From

The people who are worried about where the younger generation is going should stop to consider where it came from. There isn't any guarantee but this should ease the burden of their anxieties. To observe Youth Week without mention of the Catholic home would be comparable to beginning a book in the middle with no knowledge of what has preceded. For the home is the source of youth. The encouragement for Catholic young people to become "Healthier, Holier, and Happier," (the slogan for the annual observance of Youth Week this year), to become stronger men and women in body and spirit and thus more secure in their hope of attaining eternal happiness, comes from the Catholic parents. The result should be the assurance that we, the present younger generation, will have the tools to employ in the direction of a future generation.

Around that segment of the younger generation whose source is the Catholic family circle, the qualifying adjective "Catholic" places a sort of screen, filtering and diluting the ceaseless flow of influencing propaganda. I would like to think that this screen is composed of our Catholic parents. For from the Catholic home have come young people with stronger morals, a better sense of values, and the spirit of Christian idealism. And this has been achieved because the Catholic parents have labored to instill in their offspring the ideas and ideals of Catholicism.

Canadian Capers

by Gretchen

Nearly eight weeks ago, Sister Rita Agnes, Kathleen Brown ('55) and I arrived in Quebec City, bleary-eyed from travel. After living, laughing and breathing French Quebecois, I am motoring in a Volkswagon 600 miles from Quebec to Toronto. Kathleen and I came to learn French via the Cours d'Ete, l'Universite Laval.

Frustrated by popping French on my radio, shouting and hissing in the streets, I had to parlez francais or it would have been all over. I learned about the French at Mile's dinner table, where with my fork upside down, I stuffed French bread, soup, steaks and pastry. Instead of doing homework at night we walked (even in torrents of rain) through the narrow streets, hearing arguments over our heads as women pulleyed their dripping laundry across the streets. Small children playing with kitchen knives would hide behind the cannons that lined the Ramparts to smoke. They sang and jumped on us for money.

With the chimes of the Basilique, religious with gowns and chapeaus of every style, shrines and crosses in the autobuses, you know that Quebec is a Catholic city. Patriotically, we shot fireworks from the Citadel on July 4 and walked les rues singing to basse-ville where we boarded la Traversee and surprised the Capitaine with an American rock'n roll party. Bicycling to Mt. Morency, the moonlight cruise around L'Ile d'Orleans, les boites de nuit with gypsy violinists wandering from booth to table, buying hot French bread baked in stone ovens along the road and stretching to reach the bearskin hat of a guard at the Citadel, were suddenly ordinary happenings.

When the Government threw a cocktail party at the Chateau I didn't mind smuggling in an innocent vacationer from Notre Dame on a Spanish priest's ticket, but I was upset when I was tossed, clothes and all, into the St. Lawrence. I came home completely brainwashed.

● A LINK WITH THE PAST

Crosses from the stations which were used at the old St. Teresa's on Quality Hill have been refinished by Sister Georgianna Marie and installed in the chapel in Music and Arts. The crosses are nine inches high with the Greek symbol for Christ, the Chi Rho, painted in yellow on a Walnut finish.

PRACTICE-TEACHING SESSION: Mrs. Helen K. Billings supervises as Janet Walterbeck demonstrates methods in teaching children to tell time. Marianne Jacobs and Peggy Pinkerton look on.

Twelve college seniors have begun their apprenticeship for the teaching profession under the guise of practice teachers. They began in the last two weeks by observing the classroom teacher at work. After this period of observation, the students were given charge of the instruction of the various classes under the observation of the critic teacher. The critic teacher submits rating sheets to Mrs. Billings, acting head of the Education Department at St. Teresa's. One hundred hours spent in the classroom work under the observation of a critic teacher are required by state law for certification as a teacher in Missouri.

The prospective teachers, the schools to which they have been assigned and the classes they are teaching are: Sue Christianson, St. Teresa's Academy, physical education; Mary Dudley, Border Star, 6th grade; Kathy Gordon, Hale Cook, 3rd grade; Dorothy Gangel, E. C. White, 2nd grade; Marianne Jacobs, J. C. Nichols, 3rd grade; Peggy Pinkerton, Francis Willard, kindergarten; Mary Eileen O'Donnell, E. C. White, 2nd grade; Barbara Tucker, Border Star, 3rd grade; Sara Wright, Wheatley, 4th grade; Mary Ann White, Yeager, 4th grade; Janet Walterbach, Troost, 3rd grade; Margaret Yonke, Sweeney, 4th grade.

Seminars will be held weekly at the college. The practice teachers will be able to discuss their problems and be given an opportunity to correlate the technique and content courses with their particular situation and its needs. Mrs. Billings intends to use these seminars to acquaint the students through the year with representatives of the various personnel with whom they will have contact as a teacher—the school superintendent, the librarian, the nurse, and perhaps the cafeteria director.

Art Teacher In Europe

Jari Havlena, formerly with the Art Department at the college, is currently residing in Europe where she is working on a Ph.D. in art. Here are some excerpts from a letter written to one of her former students:

"So now to give details of the life of a Bohemian. I don't wear leder hosen—only Austrian haircut and turtle-necks.

"So what have I done? Well, when school was out at Angewandte Kunst, I headed toward Salzburg for the annual summer music festival and to study under a great teacher, Oskar Kokolika. Remember! He is one of the important German Expressionist painters. He is wonderful for color, and his work now is quite abstract. I studied in the old fortress-castle (1065 A.D.) built on the mountain overlooking the river in Salzburg. I also slept in this old fortress. (So don't you believe this to be an original type of Bohemianism?)

"After the Salzburg summer session I returned to Germany to study the major collections then went to Yugoslavia and to Greece. I remained in Athens about three weeks among those fascinating ruins, reviewing art history and making new abstractions like crazy. I will go to Austria for special classes which begin in October at Vienna.

"In March I shall go to Paris and remain there for a month to live in the Louvre (see, I have pull!). I shall probably sail for the U. S. from France or Spain.

"I was in Italy during April. Attended Easter Mass in Duomo of Florence. Spent two days hounding Florentine cemeteries for interesting color-slide photography. I also stopped in Venice. All my slides taken in Italy turned out beautifully. I didn't take pictures in London or Amsterdam, for I was in both places during February, and all it did was rain and look mean. The sky didn't bless me with a smile once on that venture.

"I'm so happy with the wonderful music of Vienna. Of course, "Wien" is the music center of the world. I have heard many of the world's greatest artists in Wien these last few months. Attend at least two or three concerts per week.

"The family I live with has a car, so often on weekends we drive to little villages surrounding Vienna. We went to Burgenland once. All the storks fly up from Egypt to nest there. Every chimney had a stork family perched precariously on top.

"Any mail you send will be forwarded."

THE CLASS OF '57

Teaching, nursing and medical technology are the predominant professions of the Class of '57.

Sallie Rielley and Joy Tezon Hubbard are teaching English classes in high school. Sallie is at Ward in Kansas City, Kansas, and Joy is teaching in Harlington, Texas. Pat O'Donnell is at St. Augustine's High School.

In the elementary system, second-grade teachers are Eleanora Danzo at St. Elizabeth's, Pat Donnelly at Linwood, and Jean Carol Jacobson. Kindergarten teachers are Carolyn McGrath and Mary Ross, who is at Askew. Nancy Witherow is teaching in San Diego, California.

Four nurses received their R.N. on September 17. Mary Ann McCowan and Marilyn Lonergan are at the K. U. Medical Center. Dottie Agnew is working for Dr. McCoullough, an orthopedic surgeon. Mary Agnes Medill is living at her home in Leavenworth, Kansas.

Medical technologists Pat Ketterlin and Elizabeth Davis are interning at St. Joseph's Hospital. Linda Charleston and Maureen White O'Connor are at Menorah Hospital for their internship.

Mary Jo Randall is taking graduate classes in drama at Catholic University in Washington, D. C.

Mary Therese Lillis is doing laboratory work at the Bendix Aviation Corporation.

Marilyn Lynch has a secretarial position with the Russell Stover Candy Company.

● GRADS IN SPEECH, DRAMA

Three Speech and Drama majors are doing graduate work in their field. Kathleen McDonnell, '55, received her M.A. in Speech Therapy from St. Louis University in June. Kathleen is now teaching in the Saint Louis school system.

Rita McGrann, '56, is at Yale University, where she will take a three-year program for a Master of Fine Arts degree in drama. Rita taught high-school classes in speech and English at Muskogee, Oklahoma, during the past year.

Mary Jo Randall, '57, is at Catholic University in Washington, D. C., doing graduate work in drama. This summer she held a scholarship at the Shakespeare School in Ashland, Oregon, where she had the roles of Kate in The Taming of the Shrew and Rosalind in Love's Labor's Lost.

Sodality Under New Leaders

At the Sodality meeting on October 3 the program for the coming year will be outlined. Beginning this year, the Sodality, under the leadership of Sister Paul Joseph, moderator, and Winifred Purdome, prefect, will put freshmen on probation before accepting them as regular members.

Arrangements are being made for the Mariology Workshop to be held here November 17. CST holds the chair for the regional commission. All schools which are members of the Central Midwest Region of NFCCS will be represented. The theme for this workshop is "Mary and the Trinity."

One of the projects that the Sodality will pursue most earnestly is the learning and subsequent teaching of Christian Doctrine. In an address given to the Sodalists on September 25, Reverend Thomas Bowdern, S.J., of the Rockhurst Education Department, stressed active membership in the Sodality as a call to perfection which is higher than mere salvation. The Pope, Father Bowdern said, is looking to Sodalists to assist priests and religious to help bring non-Catholics to the faith; mental prayer is one of the best means of conversion.

Father informed the Sodalists that the Apostleship of Prayer is one of the general means of salvation, and that members of the Sodality, therefore, should say the morning offering and at least one decade of the Rosary each day, and receive Holy Communion once a week in reparation for sins committed against the Sacred Heart.

Enters Convent

Bette Moslander

Miss Bette Moslander, formerly of the Theology Department, has entered the Sisters of St. Joseph of Concordia, Kansas. She had been on the faculty for the past four years.

Dr. Moslander received her B.S. in medical technology at Marymount College in Salina, Kansas, conducted by this order. She received her Ph.D. in Theology at St. Mary's College in Notre Dame, Indiana.

After six months in the postulate and one year in the novitiate, Dr. Moslander will make her profession.

Alumna Donates Statue

MADONNA AND CHILD attract the attention of Ann Burlingame, senior art major. The art piece was donated to the college by Lt. and Mrs. Charles Neal (Patsy Maggard, '52), who have been stationed in Bavaria for the past two years. The three-foot statue was cut from a solid section of Birchwood by a wood-carving student in the school at Oberammergau in the Black Forest section of Germany.

STUDENTS! DO YOU NEED MONEY?

The Drama Department will pay 10% commission on ads to be run in the play program for the fall production, "The Importance of Being Earnest." 12% commission will be given on ads totaling $100 or more.

Contracts may be obtained from Sister M. Felice in the Assembly Hall.

Sr. Marcella Sells Play, Short Story

Sister Marcella Marie, head of the English Department, recently sold her children's play, The Last of the Leprechauns, to Samuel French, Inc., a New York publisher. The three-act play, with musical score by Sister de La Salle, head of the Music Department, will be on the market early in February.

The play ran five performances at the college last February. In June it was presented for the summer session and at the National Catholic Theatre Conference held at the Music Hall, where many of the directors attending the Conference requested scripts.

Two other plays written by Sister Marcella were performed at the college: Parlor Talk, a two-act comedy about St. Joseph nuns, was presented during the 1956 summer session, and The Third Window, a one-act religious drama about the martyrdom of St. Barbara, was presented in Lent during last semester.

Sister Marcella has also sold a short story, The Christmas Gift, to the St. Anthony Messenger. It will appear in the December issue.

Practice-Teachers See Little Red Schoolhouse

The teacher took the kerosene lamp from the shelf labeled "Museum," lit the wick, and replaced the glass chimney. Nine CST education majors, carefully balanced on fifth-grade-size chairs, leaned forward to hear the fourth, fifth and sixth graders discuss this pioneer light fixture.

As the visitors found out, the three R's are taught at the Valley View School but by a very different method. The last red brick rural school in Northeast Johnson County that once served only ten farm children has grown to a two-room school with forty-nine pupils taught by two teachers. First, second and third graders are taught in the converted basement while fourth, fifth and sixth graders are taught upstairs in the original one classroom.

A new housing development in the district will swell enrollment to 250 next fall and construction of a larger, modern school will see the retirement of the last "little red schoolhouse" in this area.

Manley trophy for literary excellence. The colleges taking second and third place will receive achievement ribbons.

According to the Kansas City Star, the College of St. Teresa enrolled 100 freshmen and classes began September 16. We just go to school here and have been too busy to notice, as we register and re-register trying to schedule our classes with those the faculty has offered. The French literature class almost had to call in a statistician to work out their schedule, before they remembered lunch hours and 8 a.m. were open.

Underground (in the smoker) it's the same old story. Upperclassmen are trying to sell their books (for which they paid $3.00 second hand) for $2.98. We are all proud to be college students; nonetheless we already need a B.S. degree to calculate the hours when one can transact business in the book store.

Bunk Beds

Across the campus green I hear that bunk beds are the delight of resident students; we have more boarding students than before but not so many bored. There was one sophisticated high heeler who, when she heard she would be studying Keats, demanded, "What are they?" There are those that come before they go, and some that go before they come.

The Chaucer class is finding out all the old English is not lavender.

Hay-Fever and Flu

I didn't mean to stir the hay fever by mentioning lavender; it is the pollen count that climbs before the first freeze. Hay fever and Asiatic flu are running rampant. These are not the only latest reports. It was announced in our first student assembly that a new fad of reporting has been added to our demerit system. I guess this is just part of a nationwide effort to stomp out crime waves. Many of the little shaking girls have been dreaming of the roving K. C. screen slitter.

Back to school again and more and more students are hiding behind engagement rings. For those that weren't, the odds were high the other night at our Student Government mixer. This mixer didn't turn out to be a mix-up. There was actually a girl short-

President To Talk On Mental Health

Sister M. Alfred, president of college, will be a member of the symposium on mental health to be sponsored by the St. Teresa Alumnae Sunday evening, October 13, at 8:00 p.m. in Donnelly Hall. Kermit Phelps, a psychiatrist of the Veterans Administration Hospital, Mr. Walt Bodine, radio and television announcer, Dr. Rita Perll, an alumna of the college, and Captain William Gilmer of the Kansas City Police Department.

age. $$$$ piled in, perhaps enough to buy an assembly hall stretcher for the new crop we harvested this year. Eager students walk in on Monday afternoon and after an hour of assembly their clothes have that "sack look."

This and the tubular look seem to be quite important. Last summer I was sloshing around in Quebec in tennis shoes and khaki rain coat, saving exotic plumes and chapeaus for the natives. When I arrived in Chicago I noticed that leopard skin and pheasant feathers were bagged sometime between July and September. Also, the air-conditioned dolls will come into their own now that nature lovers must tone down the fading tan. Summer has faded and school has become stark reality. If you have drip dry classes, you are all set; but if things have to be ironed out later on, that will be a problem.

Mission Club Will Present Speaker At Oct. Assembly

The Mission Club has undergone a complete change of government this year. New officers are Rita Hall, president; Miriam Songsiridet, vice-president; and Mary McShane, secretary. The treasurer will be elected from the freshman members. The Mission assembly is scheduled for October 21. Reverend Martin Froeschl will speak to the students on the "Propagation of the Faith." The study topic for the year will be Mexico and the Spanish-speaking countries. Wednesday is designated as special prayer day for the missions. The weekly collection will be taken up on that day.

NFCCS Regional Fall Congress At Marymount

The next regional meeting of the National Federation of Catholic College Students will be the Fall Congress at Marymount College, Salina, Kansas, October 11-12. The meeting is open to the student body.

Among the 500 delegates from 200 Catholic colleges in the United States who attended the National Student Government Conference and the National NFCCS Congress were three CST students: Suzy Giblin, SGA president; Winifred Purdome, Sodality Prefect; and Marianne Jacobs, NF senior delegate.

The newly-elected national president of NF is Joseph Harris, a negro student of La Salle College in Philadelphia. This is the first time in the history of the Federation that a negro has been elected to the office of national president.

Among the resolutions passed at the fourteenth National Congress were:

A suggestion for the elimination of extreme regulation on Catholic college campuses so that students may be better prepared to assume their responsibilities as Christian leaders after graduation.

A resolution to activate the principle of individual equality by working for the complete abolition of all segregational practices.

A condemnation of the actions of the group of forty-one young Americans, most of which were students, who refused to recognize the authority of the State Department by entering Communist China. The International Affairs vice-president was mandated to notify the United States Department of State of the position of this Congress.
